

By virtue of the way the service operates it gives me traffic information 24 x 7...terrestrial radio gives me traffic when they want to not when I need it. AM & FM have personalities, sell commercials, and generally get in the way of the information or music I use my radio for in the first place. Besides, if you listen to the XM version of traffic you will know in a minute the automated voice is not a personality you might decide is the only person you will get your traffic from.

Broadcasting is a dinosaur on it's way to the tar pit and creating squabbles like this is one more way they will get there in a hurry. Why didn't Viacom or Clear Channel invent Sattelite radio?

Leave the air space alone weather it be from an earth station or a satellite station. You people are spending way too much time on cleaning up the air for my tastes. You can stop a lot of that too.
